

Prayer of Unconditional Love

There is no irritation, frustration, or resentment in my life. Any sense of inner agitation is now wiped away, and in its place there comes a warm sense of my oneness in essence and experience with all of the good there is. The center of my being is divine in understanding and intelligence. I am calm, poised, and at peace with the world. And so it is.